SCOUTS GREET BIG CHIEF

Baden-Powell Receives Rousing Welcome from 3,000 Boys.

HAS BLIND GUARD OF HONOR

"Now I Am an American," He Cries in an Outburst of Enthusiasm at Review.

In the greatest outpouring of boyhood the movement has ever seen, in this country at least, the Boy Scouts of America came marching from three states to make "heap big medicine" in honor of Lieutenant General Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell at the 71st Regiment Armory yesterday afternoon Three thousand of them, they came. It only took the appearance of Baden-Powell himself to turn that sea of babbling voices into all the cheering any conquering general could want to salute his fame.

There were just as many events in scoutcraft to be run off as there are letters in the alphabet, and they fell to without more ceremony, five, six, ten groups of them at once, until no four-ring circus ever surpassed the 71st Regiment Armory for diversified excitement.

Here were boys building a tower out of tall saplings till it stood forth high and stanch, with a boy atop of it hoisting an American flag; there others were raising a complete wireless mast and sending messages crackling from it to the reviewing In another corner others were showing how to resuscitate almost drowned comrades, and there were firefighting woodcraft scenes (such as making fire with sticks instead of with matches). tent raising contests, and, not the least interesting, a troop of small Chinamen going through their drills as soberly as though the success of the revolution in China deperfied upon their efficiency.

The great floor of the armory was busy with scoutcraft in all its forms, and among it all General Powell rambled, inspecting, admiring and praising the efficiency of the youngsters

Into it all came a bit of pathos that was quick to touch the veteran warrior's heart When he took his seat in the reviewing stand he noticed a troop of boys seated behind him, completely cut off from a view of

"These boys can't see a thing," he ob-"They should be moved out in

"They're the blind troop, general," he was told. "They are your guard of honor. It won't be necessary to move them out, for they could not see, any way."

After the detailed demonstrations of scoutcraft were completed came the great spectacular event of the day. The troops all took their places at the edge of the floor, while General Powell was escorted to arraigned before Magistrate Appleton in the centre. Then melting away from the the Yorkville Court yesterday and held were killed or injured, was handed down massed banks of boys at the sides, two abreast, a column began to wind itself more closely and closely in a great spiral, marching toward the centre, till all were in it and the floor was filled with the scouts. Then at a command they all squattedwhich was a signal for the biggest demonstration of youthful shouting of the day. Caps went into the air like corn in a popper till at last the scout masters com-

It was announced yesterday that General Baden-Powell will be a guest of Mr. Roosevelt at luncheon to-day at Oyster Bay, spending the afternoon there. The trip will be made in automobiles, and the general will be accompanied by Gifford Pinchot. George D. Pratt and James E. West.

MUST HAVE FIRE ESCAPES

Not Even Fireproof Buildings Exempt, Appellate Division Holds.

The Appellate Term of the Supreme Court made an important ruling yesterday with regard to the need of owners of loft properties placing fire escapes on their buildings, holding that this requirement of the code must be carried out even on fireproof buildings. The case came before the court on an appeal taken from the municipal court by Henry Korn, who owns the eight story loft building at Nos. 158 and 160 Greene street. The city of New York recovered a penalty of $250 from Korn for his failure to equip his building with fire escapes. His defence Appellate Term of the Supreme Court affirmed the verdict against Korn.

HETTY GREEN WINS POINT

Won't Have to Pay the Costs of Hearst

Suit She Lost.

At least there is some measure of satisfaction for Mrs. Hetty Green, the financier, in her controversy with William R. Hearst over the $275,000 mortgage which she held on the Columbus Circle property of the latter. A few days ago Mr. Hearst sent the money to Mrs. Green and asked that the mortgage be cancelled. She refused to accept the money although it was perfectly good coin of the realm. Mrs. Green ordered the Hearst representatives out of her office and threatened to call the police. She said later that she did not know who they were and she would take no chances with them. The Hearst agents said that the astute financier insisted on getting interest for thirty days more than was due. Hearst then brought proceedings in the Supreme Court to compel Mrs. Green to deliver the bond and mortgage. Before the case came up she capitulated, but the Hearst counsel asked Justice Davis to tax Mrs. Green with the cost of the court pro-Justice Davis rendered his decision on this point yesterday, refusing to compel Mrs. Green to pay the costs.
